LOEKA CLOTHING

You girlies out there might complain about inequality and all that, but we don't reckon you've got much of a leg to stand on when you've got a company like Loeka making some of the best riding kit we've ever seen...and just for girls. The waterproof jacket and trousers shown here are just a tiny example of what they have to offer, but with a superb cut, great styling, and well thought out features they're typical of their range. The jacket has been designed with enough room to fit some pads underneath and the trousers are made from a pretty sturdy material, so we reckon they'd both be perfect for a bit of DH action too. Their shorts are worth a particular mention because they basically offer all their different pattern shorts in two different lengths and three different weights of material, so no matter what your taste and riding style they've got it covered. We think some of the blokes' clothing companies could learn a thing or two from Loeka.
